

Drivers of Dangerous Goods in Limited Quantities or Limited Loads

Who should attend

This course is designed for those responsible for loading and carrying dangerous goods in small packages or loads, retail packages or groupage loads and have a duty to ensure that they protect themselves, the public, property and the environment. This course is designed to help drivers understand the dangers of the substances that they carry, how to handle them safely and correctly, how to prevent risks to themselves and others and how to deal with accidents, incidents and emergencies.

Key benefits

To provide sufficient knowledge of dangerous substances and a full understanding of the legislation that governs their handling and carriage. This course also makes clear the need for – and provides a platform for – ongoing dangerous goods training.

At the end of the course, candidates will understand their responsibilities under national and international legislation regarding the transport of dangerous goods in small packages or loads. They will also know how to minimise risk of injury to people and damage to property and the environment.

Course content

- Driver duties
- UN classifications and packing groups
- Identification of dangerous substances
- Application of regulations
- Determination of load limits
- Loading/unloading procedures
- Site rules
- Written information/documentation
- Vehicle markings
- Safe parking
- UN packaging
- Markings on packaging
- Protective clothing
- Emergencies: spills and fires
- Security

Course duration

1 day

Venue/dates

This course is delivered in-company. Please call 08717 11 22 22* to discuss your training requirements.

Prices

£980 + VAT in-company per full day.

“As the UK trade association for the specialist aromatherapy essential oil Industry it is our responsibility to ensure we reflect a high standard of quality and safety in all our work for the interest of manufacturers and suppliers. We asked the FTA to tailor this course specifically for our members, enabling them to gain a valuable insight into the safe and legal transport of aromatherapy products. They learnt about the potential dangers of the products, how to transport and handle them safely and correctly and what to do in the event of an emergency. We have had some excellent feedback from those that attended and in turn we have been able to advise other members on best practice for remaining compliant with the legislation that governs their handling and carriage.”

Sylvia Baker, Aromatherapy Trade Council

